SUBJECT INDEX TO VOLUME 9

- Benefits of serial layer microfiltration, 61
- Comparison of two NaCl test systems used for measuring filter efficiency, 45
- Continuous fractionation of glass microspheres by gravitational sedimentation in split-flow thin (SPLITT) cells, 105
- Conventional air cleaners versus electrostatic air cleaners in HEPA and indoor applications, 1
- Design guidelines for cyclone improvement, 91
- Effect of loading with an oil aerosol on the collection efficiency of an electret filter, 19
- Encapsulation of toxic waste materials by fly ash agglomeration, 167
- Experimental investigation of a wet dust scrubber: dust collection based on turbulent diffusion, 75
- Experimental study of dust filtration in surface-type nonwovens, 31
- Flume design for homogeneous slurry flow, 149
- Hydrodynamic coupling and nonequilibrium distribution in pore diffusion of non-spherical fine particles, 135
- Model of microwave heating of ilmenite for consideration in lunar processing, 181
- Proper use of water liquid particle counters, 201
- Pseudohomogeneous flow approximation for dispersed two-phase systems, 119
- Review of the particulate nature of lipopolysaccharide and its measurement by the Limulus ameocyte lysate test, 55
- Statistical method for obtaining particle-size distribution of idiomorphic minerals by microscope analysis, 161
- Synthetic copolymers containing free or protected catechol residues for the pH-controlled selective flocculation of ultrafine dispersions of ilmenite with respect to rutile, 191
